Abstract: Romanian poet Traian T. Coșovei stands out as having through a special sensitivity, a predisposition for staging and disguising his own feelings in sumptuous theatrical settings, and the fine art of unmistakably including the biographical element, lived, in his own feelings, written. The volume of stories signed by the poet's father is a very important source with valuable biographical information, a radiography of the first years of Moreac's life, a mandatory and fundamental book for a comprehensive monographic study of a fantasy and playful writer.*
